Students need 120 college-level credits to graduate. Developmental courses do not count toward the 120 credits needed to graduate. These include Language Skills, Basic Algebra, Reading Skills and Applied Learning Skill Development. Three of these courses have had a name change and starting Fall 2016 will appear as Developmental English, Developmental Math, and Developmental Reading. Student's transcript will show Total Earned Credit; students must SUBTRACT the developmental courses credit to find out what their college-level credit is.
