The federal government recently awarded Alderson Broaddus University an additional $317,569 in COVID-19 relief funding. This grant is funded through the Higher Education Emergency Relief Fund (HEERF) and its Supplemental Allocation for Institutions of Higher Education (SAIHE) program. This funding was authorized by the Coronavirus Response and Relief Supplemental Appropriations Act (CRRSAA) signed into law last December 2020. The federal application for SAIHE funds indicates that this funding must be used “for financial aid grants to students, including students needing financial assistance to reenroll.”

In the period of April 1, 2022 to June 30, 2022 $162,238.91 was issued to 59 students, in 60 individual disbursements. To date, AB has distributed $301,225.70 (135 disbursements to 90 different students) to students who were identified by the University as being at immediate risk of being unable to continue their engagement in higher education, met the federal qualifications, and indicated that they were in need of emergency relief funding. As we continue through this academic year, the University will continue to identify students at high risk of being unable to continue their engagement in higher education and students who are in need of financial assistance to reengage in higher education.
